

Ruling on sales tax Wednesday

By GEORGEANN McGEE
for the Press-Record

The collection of Granite City's supplemental one percent sales tax continues during the weekend, despite a court injunction Thursday in Edwardsville that attempts to force merchants to stop collection of the tax.

Associate Judge Edward Ferguson Thursday allowed sales tax opponents to withdraw their request for an injunction and told attorneys for both sides to present written arguments concerning the constitutionality of the city-collected sales tax on Wednesday morning.

The delay may give the city council time Tuesday night to amend its controversial sales tax ordinance before the written arguments are presented.

Injunction withdrawn to speed court case

Judge Ferguson said he would try to issue a ruling Wednesday afternoon on what is a unique first challenge in the state on an added city sales tax.

Ferguson said there existed no prior agreement or oral or written arguments on which attorneys could base their case.

Irvin C. slate Jr., assistant city attorney, who is representing Granite City with City Attorney John Papa, said there has not been a case like this before the Illinois Supreme Court since the new 1970 Illinois Constitution took effect, and no one specific case can be used as support.

"I think that there have been many past cases concerning how rule sources of revenue, and the job of the lawyers now will be to determine which are the most nearly applicable."

Attorney Joseph Brown, representing Woodrome Oils, Inc., and Jack Mathews Chevrolet, Inc., said he withdrew the injunction to allow the case to proceed as rapidly as possible, since the tax is currently being collected.

The judge prevented another possible delay to the proceedings by ruling that the list of financial questions presented by State concerning the sales and business operations of Woodrome and Mathews. The financial questions could have taken the automobile companies several days to answer.

Judge Ferguson said State's questions were not pertinent to the central issue, which was whether or not Granite City's Supplemental Retailers' Occupation Tax ordinance conforms to the Illinois constitution.

A through the city lost a possible delay when the judge rejected State's

Predicts steel upturn

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

The Rev. William T. Hogan, a Jesuit priest, professor of economics at Fordham University and a renowned business expert specializing in the field of steel production, told members of the St. Louis Section of the American Iron and Steel Engineers at Lewis & Clark Restaurant in East Alton that he foresees the American steel industry putting gradually out of the market its low production and low profits and believes that within two years, the industry world-wide, will experience another boom similar to the 1973-74 boom.

"I see cause for the future of reasonable optimism. I wish I could say Rev. Hogan to the good men of about 200 steel products and material suppliers at a dinner meeting last week.

He warned, to make money, American steel mills are going to have to invest more money to keep their plants modern and able to produce steel competitively. He cited the Japanese mills and other mills worldwide. Rev. Hogan said that steel companies invested a little over $8 billion in 1980 in modernization of equipment and expansion. "It sounds like a lot, but the industry needs $5 billion a year," he contended. "We need good, modern competitive plants to make steel better and less expensive."

He said he believes the American steel industry will answer the call and remain competitive. "Let no one say we are operating at obsolete levels," he said. "The U.S. Seven percent of our production is from modern competitive plants. Why bring in obsolete junk? Whatever you bring in should make money," he stated.

"We'll probably double the number of continuous casters in the next five years," he predicted, noting that the casters, costing $140 million to $150 million each, are good investments, which will soon pay for themselves.

(The Granite City Steel division of National Steel Corp. started production this year on its new continuous steel caster.)

Improved depreciation allowances should encourage such construction, Rev. Hogan believes, saying that depreciation by the steel industry currently is about $1.5 billion a year and that it should be increased as construction and modernizations occur.

He said government has helped the sagging steel industry and could help more. Of four essential government actions, two have been taken and a third is in the working stage," he said.

The need for increased depreciation allowances to encourage construction has been seen and assisted by the government. The postponing of repressive pollution control deadlines also has assisted the steel industry in pulling out of the crisis experienced in the fourth quarter of last year and subsequently.

The Reagan administration now has the most important ingredient in determining proper price controls," according to Rev. Hogan.

The fiscal area where government can assist is in controlling reasonable trade, he stated. "We will soon see what happens there."

"I would say the administration has done a great deal in the four areas we have talked about," he concluded.

He said increased depreciation allowances will assist perhaps the steel industry in building new facilities, but will have a pyramid effect as other industries—automotive, appliances and others using steel—take advantage of the increased depreciation to build new plants and increase their production, thus creating the need for steel.

Rev. Hogan said the world-wide demand for steel will soon grow from the current 88 percent of production capacity, to about 90 percent of capacity, at which time the cost of buying imported steel will increase to world-wide will begin a turnaround, which will lead to a "boom" in about five years. He is shown speaking to the St. Louis District of the American Iron and Steel Engineers. At the right is Jim Eisenbeis, vice-president of the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp.

Fast 'phantom' trading fueled flow of funds

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Rapid-fire trading of stocks, some of them not even listed on the exchange, from分子 out of the St. & Co. brokerage and into private accounts, investigators say. The firm was declared insolvent last week.

Thomas R. Brimberry of Granite City, center of the investigation, remains out of sight but in contact with federal authorities.

No charges have been filed against him or any other participants in the financial scheme, and there may be no indictments until December 1 or January 1.

Attention is focusing on 10 real or fictitious margin accounts listing the following names: James Massa, trustee for himself; James Massa, trustee for himself, and Gerry Massa, Arthur Miller Jr.; Jerry S. Maeras, Maeras Enterprises; J. A. Miller.

Investigators have not said which four of these companies were the targets of phony stock documents.

Stock records for October 1980 showed a heavy and sometimes "frantic" increase in the new accounts. Included were traders of stocks from one account into another, apparently to bolster the collateral in the receiving account.

The collateral was used to maintain the credit-worthiness of the margin account, so that the customer need not put up only half of the cost of buying stocks or bonds, and the brokerage lends the remainder to the customer at interest.

If a client pays for his transactions with securities, the brokerage returns half the amount of securities to the client in cash or credit.

One of the most active accounts in October was that titled Arthur Miller Jr., the name of Brimberry's wife's brother. It showed purchases of 25,000 shares of the Dunes Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas.

Miller Inc. also had bought 25,000 shares in the Dunes last month, records indicate, and the Dunes purchase involved a total transaction of more than $1.2 million.

Other large purchases included $17,000 in Bally's stock, $16,000 in Sigma Aldrich. Other records reflect trading in the Colonial Commercial Corp., a New York firm that once tried to buy the Aladdin Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas.

The Internal Revenue Service said in comments on Brimberry told the agency this fall that when there was insufficient cash in the individual's margin account—he withdrew the amount from accounts held at Stix for private customers.

He was quoted as saying this was done with the intent of getting a tax deduction or credits; the funds were then transferred to one of several private accounts. Brimberry was senior vice-president of Stix.

The IRS testified that it checked and found that Stix money had gone into the accounts of James Massa and Gerry Massa. The latter, Collins' attorney who was the major owner of Stix last week vigorously denied all allegations. Others named by Brimberry also have issued denials.

As of information provided by Brimberry, who has been told to identify himself with only one tax felony, federal authorities sought to examine eight of the 13 securities in the ten accounts. All ten were described as controlled by Brimberry.

The eight securities, thought to be worth $8 million, were missing from company offices and from a bank vault, an official search disclosed.

By examining printed statements about the missing securities, authorities concluded that at least four of the stocks were phony, never having been issued by the companies.

Authorities said the 13 firms' stocks or bogus stocks had a market value of about $49 million. With $30 million in securities missing, the collateral basis of the ten accounts was reduced to $13 million.

Because Stix had extended cash credit of about $30 million for the margin accounts, it then found itself with a loss of about 17½ million, far

$380,000 energy-saving grant

A $380,848 energy conservation program—providing "quick payback" in the form of fuel and energy savings—was approved last week by the Granite City Board of Education.

Norman S. Owca, director of finance, said in a statement that the program, funded by the U.S. Department of Energy, that our grant request has been approved. We were awarded a $190,422 grant for energy conservation if we match it with a similar amount."

More energy-efficient lights at College Junior High School for $49,970 and new insulation for $10,000 will be paid back by economies within 15 months, in terms of the school district's cost, and within two and a half years in terms of the overall cost.

To set the stage for the program, the Board of Education on March 20, 1980, authorized a $61,470 technical assistance audit, prepared by Henry Gabriele and Willard Givens.

The district is being allowed credit of $49,970 for this work along with a previous grant of $5,100, reducing the actual cost to $40,870. The matching contribution to slightly over $40,000.

Some of the latter amount can be in the form of work by school employees, Superintendent B. J. Davis said.

It is planned to employ an engineer, not yet selected, to oversee the work.

Randy Morriss produces his own record album

By GEORGE ANN McGEE
for the Press-Record

Singer-guitarist Randy Morriss, son of Ralph Morriss, president of Morriss Realty Co., Granite City, has recorded his first progressive folk album, "Lifeline," on his own "Allegro Records" label.

Morriss describes the 10-song album as a mixture of progressive pop and folk. He composed the music and wrote or co-wrote the lyrics, backed himself on the album with a variety of instrumental sounds.

Morriss, 29, said he was first tempted to try music via a set of drums his father, Ralph, told his son not to touch. His father's efforts to save a set of drums produced a career.

A part-time resident and entertainer in Boise, Idaho, where the album was produced, Morriss said the idea for the album originated while he was conceived in Venice, Calif., where he divides his time.

Before entering the University of Colorado, he had been a self-taught instrumentalist. The change brought him closer to jazz, where he could express himself more fully, at an arm's length and farther away from his country and western style.

He debuted in Aspen, Colo., and now performs regularly in Boise, Idaho.

The album, which the company, Music Resources International, plans to release in Europe.

Morriss' future plans are much the same as he has followed the last several years, to play his own music.

American Education Week in Madison School District

The Madison Board of Education approved opening houses in the District 12 schools on Tuesday, Nov. 17, from 3 until 4 p.m. and from 6 until 8 p.m. The open houses are in observance of American Education Week, yesterday, through Saturday, Nov. 18.

Education Week is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, American Association of Education, Association of the National School Board Association.

The purpose of the special week is to inform the public regarding their schools, to gain the confidence of the community on the job being done in the schools, to show the community how it benefits by the schools, and to strengthen public support for the schools.

The three areas of vital concern to the Madison Community Unit 12 and to the community are, according to the board, accountability for what you do and how you do it, responsibility for your actions and respect for self and others.

The theme for 1981 is, "American Education and You: Partners in Our Children's Future." American Education Week was established in 1921.

1981 Christmas seals arriving

Christmas Seals from the American Lung Association are now arriving in 60 million American homes. They bear the double-barred cross, long the international symbol of the struggle against tuberculosis since the "White Plague."

Use of the double-barred cross began in battle. It resembles the emblem carried in the First Crusade by Godfrey, French Duke of Jerusalem, and his soldiers. His followers first wore the symbol on their breastplates. When the Duke became ruler of Jerusalem, he adopted the "Cross of Lorraine" as his standard.

The cross has also come to represent a symbol of war. As recently as World War I, it was the standard of an American division, and it became the "Free French" symbol during World War II.

Today, the double-barred cross represents peace and health. In 1902, it became the symbol of the antituberculosis movement. In 1906, what is now the American Lung Association adopted the double-barred cross as its emblem. In 1960, the lung association copyrighted the symbol, and it first appeared on all U.S. Christmas Seals.

This year's Christmas Seal was designed by the late George Kreck for a Christmas cover for the Saturday Evening Post. It shows a chubby grandfather riding a hobby horse, while his grandson hangs on behind.

Finally, Christmas Seals and the symbolic double-barred cross today battle for good lung health and against all lung disease.

Ruling on sales tax

questions, the city still gained time to amend its tax ordinance and State informed the judge that a "substantial" amendment will probably be passed by the Granite City Council Tuesday night. The judge then decided to give attorneys until Wednesday to submit writing arguments in the case.

At the hearing 3 consumers, Papa presented an amendment to the tax to "head off any semantics attack" on the wording of the ordinance, which Papa said was a consumer, rather than a retailers' occupation tax, limited by the state constitution. The amendment could be voted at tomorrow night's council meeting.

Ferguson said the law is very clear on how ordinances should be worded to avoid constitutional problems. He said if there is confusion in interrupting an ordinance, the deficiency lies in the ordinance.

Brown said that even if the city sales tax is amended, the question will still remain of the period the taxes were collected under the existing ordinance. Slate said he is not sure what hearing an amended ordinance would have on past collections.

Brown asked the judge to consider the application of the law as it applies to the current circumstances.

In proceeding oral arguments, according to Brown, one of the most vigorous disputes during the framing of the present Illinois Constitution concerned home rule taxing by corporations. According to State, the city tax is not an occupation tax and that being a "retail merchant" is not an occupation by itself.

Both State and Brown cited the Paper Stock Case, the City Tax Case of 1974 Illinois Supreme Court Case to support their arguments. In that case, the court issued a 20-page decision, including a dissent, declaring valid a Chicago employers' expense tax.

The 4-3 Supreme Court decision was based on a tax for employers of more than 15 employees. The fact is that in that case was whether or not the tax constituted a tax on occupations. State contended that both the majority and minority decisions in the Paper Stock case would support the city's tax. He said that decision was based on the fact that the court wanted to avoid an income tax and to prevent a proliferation of various business and occupation taxes.

He restated that the city tax is not an occupation tax and that the Illinois Constitution makes clear the need for home rule cities have to provide for revenue. Brown said the Supreme Court not only wants to limit the proliferation of taxes on businesses and occupations at the local level, but had intended for a uniformity of taxes within the state.

Refusing Slate's statement that the city's tax is not an occupation tax, but rather a retail merchant tax, including many non-retailers. Brown said the added city sales tax is not a tax on every business. He said Granite City's tax includes many exemptions, including many large organizations in the city.

Both sides in the hearing, State and Brown argued on points in the original complaint submitted to the court by Woodrome and Mathews. It was upon two of these points that Slate based his series of questions to the dealers.

The 10 interrogatories State submitted in the court included questions on the gross sales made by dealers during the last 12 months; the amount of their sales subject to the Illinois Retailers' Occupation Tax, the amount of retailers' tax actually paid in that same amount of time and whether of not all or a portion of those taxes were actually collected from their customers.

If the dealers did collect all or a portion of the retailers' tax from the customers, State wanted to know what percentage of the tax they collected from their customers and the percentage that included in their tax base price or otherwise "absorb." State also asked Woodrome and Mathews if they acted as Woodrome and Mathews were acting in the behalf of any other persons or organizations.

Slate said the plaintiffs' complaint stated Woodrome and Mathews were negligent in failing to inform the public that the ordinance continues and it is therefore important to find out how the law affects car dealers.

He said the questions also were designed to determine if "unannounced participants" were party to the litigation. State said the court is entitled to know if other parties are involved. Brown denied that any other parties were involved.

State defended his questions by stating that if the car dealers are claiming they are going to be deprived of their right to do business, then the court has a right to determine to what extent the dealers are going to absorb the tax themselves or pass it on to their customers. State said the questions were meant to gather information that would help resolve the complaint.

approximately the effects of domestic steel which also will be expensive as steel mills attempt to recover from the losses and small profits of the previous months.

"We are going to have to pay some very high prices. When we come to the point we need imports, we are going to have to pay higher prices for them," he predicted.

He said it appears that with steel mill closings and deteriorating equipment, production capacity in the industrialized nations will decline 10 to 15 million net tons a year, so when the demand for steel increases, those plants which are able to produce steel after a year will be sufficient to meet what they will need, to fear competition from imported steel.

He predicted a rise in demand for steel of approximately 1.5 percent per year, while steelmaking capacity will continue to fall to dwindle. Those plants which do continue to produce steel will be able to fill the void left by 1985 operating at an output between 90 and 93 percent of their capacity, which should lead to solid profits.

He noted that production in the world, estimated at a total capacity of approximately 850 million net tons a year, has decreased from 747 million tons in 1979 to 717 million tons in 1980. Demand is expected to reach 800 million tons by

Brown said that if necessary, he was prepared to show evidence that the dealers suffered a "drastic" loss of sales since the onset of the tax, but the hardship is not essential to the constitutional question.

He said he thought the court should consider the constitutionality of the tax as a retailer's occupation tax, including many non-retailers. Brown said the added city sales tax is not a tax on every business. He said Granite City's tax includes many exemptions, including many large organizations in the city.

He said exploring the impact on automobile dealers would simply delay the hearing, which would be "more expensive" for his clients. He said Woodrome and Mathews would have to hire special accountants to find the answers for the hearing.

Brown then asked that paragraphs 18 and 19 of the Woodrome-Mathews complaint, which sought an injunction against "irresponsible" car dealers because dealers had no "remedy" at law, be withdrawn.

The judge agreed that any information which could be obtained from the questions was not necessary to decide the ruling. He said the whole issue turned on the ordinance, saying the ordinance will rise or fall on its own merit.

Entered as exhibits at the hearing were the city sales tax ordinance, the city municipal code regulating the tax, the state sales tax ordinance and a letter sent to local merchants notifying them of the sales tax.

The approximately one-hour hearing, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, in addition to reporters and attorneys, was attended only by David Nolan, an assistant to Mayor Paul Schuler, and Alderman Mac Warfield of the Sixth Ward.

The hearing resulted from an Oct. 28 complaint filed in Madison County Circuit Court which asked the court to immediately halt the tax collection. State said the court is entitled to know if other parties are involved.

State defended his questions by stating that if the car dealers are claiming they are going to be deprived of their right to do business, then the court has a right to determine to what extent the dealers are going to absorb the tax themselves or pass it on to their customers. State said the questions were meant to gather information that would help resolve the complaint.

assure substantial profits. In the case where high rates of operation were reached, it was necessary for many of the companies to use marginal, high-cost equipment, which produced steel but no profits.

"With this equipment replaced, profits can be earned on virtually every ton produced. Second, a high world-wide demand for steel has eliminated trade problems. In 1973 and 1974, when demand on a global basis was very strong, trade prospered and there were import problems.

"It is most likely that there will be a moderate increase in steel production, replacement and replacement costs are so high that very little money will be left for expansion. Further, most companies in the industrialized world have at least some excess capacity and, at present, have no urge, whatever, to expand," he added.

He said there is every little chance of an import ban, blast furnaces or integrated steel mills being produced within the next few years, due to market conditions, but that will, ultimately, result in all steel mills in the world operating at higher percentages of capacity and, most probably,

"For the next four to five months, it looks pretty good. For the next four to five years, I would say things look pretty rosy," Rev. Hogan concluded.

Youth injured in hunting accident

Raymond O. Barbee, 18, of 103 Hill St., Madison, was accidentally hit in the face and hands with shotgun pellets while hunting with his brother, another young railroad worker, in Venetie Township near Eagle Park Acres at 4:45 p.m. Friday.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where he was admitted and treated for wounds to the head, two below the right eye, one on the forehead, and tip of one ear. Pellets also struck his left hand, injuring the ring finger, little and index fingers and thumb.

According to a report by the Madison County Sheriff's Department, the accident occurred when the two brothers saw a coyote of quail and Myron Barbee, 20, fired the completed accidentally struck his brother. Raymond was standing on the railroad tracks and his brother was standing below the tracks, when the shotgun was fired, authorities said. Raynard was listed in good condition this week at the medical center.

more than Stix's net worth of $312,000 for federal protection of their funds under the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970.

It is claimed that Brimberry had personal income exceeding $1 million in some of the years of 1975 through 1980 and failed to pay enough income taxes. Some of the withdrawals from Stix to amounts as large as $100,000 a month to keep the firm afloat, looting of customers' funds at Stix before approving bonds were issued for about 15 years by Sidney Cohen & Co., which merged last summer with Alexander Grant & Co. Grant's 1981 fiscal year audit of Stix had not been completed before federal authorities seized Stix' records and assets.

The Cohen accounting firm said in one of its reports that it noted "a substantial liquidation of bond inventory in October 1979 which resulted in a net loss, after tax credits, of $198,000 for that month."

The firm said $100,000 was added during the month. Consideration must be given to the effect on stockholders' equity which would be approximately $1,070,000 as of Oct. 31, 1979. Cohen said that at that time.

Cohen's reports to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission for the fiscal years ending Sept. 30, 1978, 1979 and 1980 included the statement that the accountants found no material inadequacies in internal controls at Stix.

Stix, a 70-year-old investment firm with eight branch offices, was closed and placed in receivership on Nov. 9. A hearing was held yesterday in Clayton, began work immediately to sort out the complicated transactions.

Moline plans to mail claim forms to Stix customers within 30 days, but it may be several months before the liquidation process is completed.

U.S. District Judge H. Kenneth Mangelin said the 5,000 investors will be eligible for federal protection of their funds under the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970.

The last hearing before Judge Wangelin last week included testimony by Michael J. O'Rourke, SEC examiner. O'Rourke said he audited the ten accounts at the suggestion of the U.S. attorney's office and could not find any wrongdoing.

Charles A. Seigel, an attorney representing the accountants, has defended their actions and has promised full cooperation by them in any official proceedings.

Seigel said representatives of the Municipal Stock Exchange and the Securities Dealers conducted surprise audits at various times and found no problems at Stix, indicating that the scheme was of a kind difficult to expose.

The last examination of Stix by Michael was in March 1977. At that time, the Securities Dealers but such audits do not include counting of cash and reconciling of accounts; it is the certified auditor that is responsible for account reconciliation, a NASC spokesman said.

SEC standards call for independent accountants to review financial records, internal controls and procedures for safeguarding of securities. But there is no requirement for brokers to segregate customer funds from their own, giving brokers available to lend to customers and funds available for margin accounts.

Stix is said to have made unusually large loans on some of its accounts compared to the norm, and also allowed securities to remain in the office and in account holders' names.

Some brokers say they avoid concentrating funds in a small number of accounts, watch the accounts of brokers and brokers' relatives.

decentralize duties so that a single employee cannot control a transaction from beginning to end, keep as few securities as possible on the company premises, and separate securities in full from the securities in margin accounts.

There are depositories for the New York, Midwest, Philadelphia and Pacific stock exchanges. When utilized, such depositories are said to reduce trades to bookkeeping entries rather than actual transfers of stocks, thus limiting the risk of theft, loss and misplacement of certificates.

U.S. Attorney Thomas E. Dittmer of St. Louis said last week "it is certain" that some grand jury indictments will be made but that "we're still just at the tip of the iceberg" as to what took place and what was only suggested as having occurred.

Cooperating are the federal attorneys in both the St. Louis district and East St. Louis district, the SEC, the IRS and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Moline has hired the accounting firm of Deloitte, Haskins & Sells to help him examine the assets and liabilities. One of Deloitte's tasks has been to make certain that the Stix offices have been closed in St. Louis, Clayton, Alton, New York, Los Angeles, Oklahoma City, Clearwater and Boca Raton, Fla., and Denver, Colo.

Securities Investor Protection Corporation representatives are helping establish procedures for customers to claim reimbursements. Most of the customers have been described as "calm, understanding and patient."

Moline is empowered to return, replace or pay for virtually any stocks and bonds held by Stix or should have been held by Stix for its customers, on the basis of the securities' Nov. 5 value.

Stix offices and Boatmen's Bank were searched Nov. 4—the day the Brimberry bubble burst.

Bethel Chapel expansion is planned

Ground breaking ceremonies were conducted at Bethel Chapel Pentecostal Church, 25th Street and Ohio Avenue, to begin a construction project which will provide an additional 9,600 square feet to the existing building.

He added, the completion of the initial phase of the project, which includes the building shell is expected by the end of the year. A subsequent program will complete the building late next year.

Bethel Chapel was founded in 1918 by the late Rev. Ralph Conner. The church was located at the corner of 25th Street and Dewey Avenue from 1924 until the present building was completed in 1967.

Rev. Galher directed the outdoor ceremony with the Board of Trustees including Eulie Rich, George Brimm, James Miller, and Eldin Rea. Also present was a guest minister, the Rev. Jerry Bac, Dennis Ammann of Ammann Construction Co., Inc. of Highland, and friends and members of the congregation.

Quiet Valley sewers controversy in Pontoon

by DONNA KIMBRO
of The Press-Record

The feasibility of flushing out the sewer system in the Quiet Valley subdivision in Pontoon Beach has been a controversial subject to the Pontoon Beach Board of Trustees. It was evident when a vote was taken on securing bids for the operation at a board meeting last week.

President Paul Bennett proposed that the village board advertise for bids to flush out the system according to the EPA specifications and all board members agreed with the exception of Donald Rea. Rea voiced a comment that the village could not afford to have the work completed. He explained that there is a lot of sludge and sand in the existing sewer and this will have to be cleaned out before the village sewer system can be connected to the new Madison County sanitary sewer. When the results do connect to the new system, the open Quiet Valley Lagoon will be closed, Bennett added.

A discussion was held on the matter during the Oct. 13 meeting and, at that time, Bennett recommended that a motion be made for informational papers be given to the village attorney, who, in turn, was to discuss the matter with Mayor Emil "Zeki" Smith, assistant Madison County state's attorney, and arrive at a decision as to the Pontoon Beach Village Board's responsibility. Rea asked if a statement could be read from the lawyers and Bennett said he had not heard from either attorney.

Neva Lucas was hired as a part-time dispatcher, according to Trustee Glen Wilcox. She will work when needed for holdovers for those who are ill or on vacation.

Board approval was given to purchase 1,000 boxes of candy from the Kroc Candy Co., distribution by Santa Claus, who will tour the village area during the holiday season visiting youngsters. Each box has a half pound of candy and the total cost will be $5.40 per dozen boxes. Mrs. Mary Warren, village clerk, announced.

Larry Bloomquist requested that the board decide on specific instructions on cutting, or removing several trees in the 3900 block of Lake Street, so he can then submit a bid on the final cost of the project.

Due to the installation of a catch basin and culvert on Lake Street, a resident adjacent to the property and the board to fill in an open 3½-foot-deep ditch left to help drain water. Since there is a question whether the drainage ditch is on another person's property, Bennett said if the problem cannot be resolved by the neighbors, the village will remove the catch basin and culvert.

The trustees agreed to allow Gordon Gass, to put his property into the Farmland Preservation Land Bank program, if 1,200 feet along Highway 117 is not included in the property. To protect the village, it was agreed that all property 1,200 deep along the highway be kept out of the land bank. The remaining land will remain in the preservation of the agreement for the benefit of the village.

Identical dresses in a rose shade were worn by the bridesmaids.

Michael O'Rourke, a brother of the groom, served as best man, Tom Glenn, Tom O'Rourke, a cousin of the groom, Mark Kettler, and Thomas Bladdick II, the bride's brother, James Simpson, the bride's cousin, George Hensel, and Keith Kluett, a cousin of the groom, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Candlelighters were Johnette Powell and Jean O'Rourke, sisters of the bride and groom, respectively.

During her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Powell chose a formal hyacinth polyester gown fashioned with long sleeves, lace yoke and ribbon belt. Mrs. O'Rourke, the bride's mother, selected a full length green chiffon empire style gown with a V-neckline and matching caplet. Mrs. Bladdick, stepmother of the bride, was attired in a long beige lace dress with pleated skirt and complemented with a caplet.

A 1977 graduate of North High School, the bride is presently employed as a unit secretary at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The groom graduated in 1975 from Collinsville High School and 1979 from Eastern Illinois University at Edwardsville where he received a degree in Business Administration. He currently works as a staff accountant for the R. O. Fields Co., Belleville.

Anderson, Green lead Cards by Buffalo

ST. LOUIS — It was bound to happen. And it did.

Once again demonstrating that bouncing back from a loss isn't as hard as recovering from a victory for them, the St. Louis Cardinals used the rushing of Otto Anderson, the defensive passing arm of Ken Greene and the passing arm of coach quarterback Neil Lomax to pound the Buffalo Bills at Busch Stadium Sunday 24-0.

Anderson regained the form that made him one of the premier running backs in the NFC the last two seasons. He totaled the ball 27 times and gained 177 yards. His efforts made him the Cardinals' all-time leading ground-gainer with 3,864 yards. In just three years as a professional, Anderson has surpassed Jim Otto as the Big Red's all-time best runner.

Anderson, just as the Cardinals have been a team for a season, have won a team Sunday. As good as Anderson was, it may have been Green who was the star of the game. He intercepted three Joe Ferguson passes and returned them for a combined total of over 100 yards. He also recovered a Buffalo fumble.

Then there was Lomax, who last week was the center of controversy when he was named to start the game in place of longtime veteran Jim Hart. He made the St. Louis coaching staff look like bunch of geniuses. All he did was complete 23 passes for 202 yards, one touchdown and no interceptions. While his statistics may not have been as impressive as were Buffalo's Ferguson (21 of 37 for 233 yards), Lomax managed to thwart the Buffalo defensive until he had to. And he stayed away from the interceptions. Ferguson threw four of them.

"I did my job," said Lomax. "But I have to give credit to the offensive line."

They controlled things out there most of the time.

"And the defense was super. They got us the ball when we needed it. They came through in the clutch time after time out there today."

Lomax jumped out to a 10-0 half-time lead, thanks to a Neil O'Donoghue field goal in the first quarter and a touchdown pass from Lomax to Stump Mitchell. He continued to do well in the first half, but he was a defensive one, turned in by Greene. He stepped in front of a pass intended for Frank Lewis and managed to return it 29 yards. The Cardinals ran out the clock, the rest of the half.

"We've had a lot of things go bad for us this year," said Greene. "Everytime something bad would happen, we'd crumble. But today, that didn't happen."

As good as the Cardinals looked in the first half, they were perhaps even a little better in the second half.

After a scoreless third quarter, in which the Big Red defense came through in the clutch time, St. Louis put the game on ice with a pair of touch-down runs by Anderson.

In that third quarter, linebacker Eric Williams recovered a Curtis Brown fumble that stopped the Bills' first possession. Buffalo's second possession came after a sack in the half. Neil Green leapt high in the air to intercept a potential Buffalo touchdown pass in the end zone.

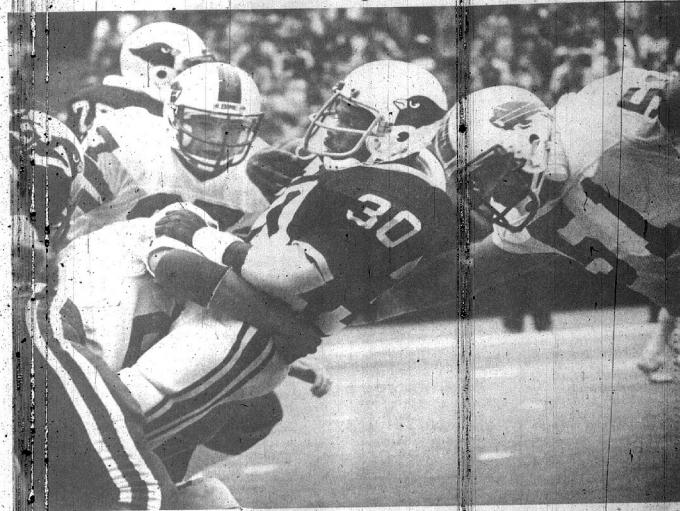

"I was hoping the defense could hold them," said Lomax. "They did. No doubt about that!"

It was another Buffalo turnover that led the Anderson's first touchdown run in the fourth quarter. Greene intercepted a deflected Ferguson pass and returned it to the Buffalo 22-yard line; Anderson scored two plays later on an 18-yard run. That was the end of the game.

He bounced off Buffalo defender Ish Robertson at the 11-yard line and scooted into the end zone. "That was the ball game," said Lomax. "Up until then, I thought Buffalo could still come back on us, but after he (Anderson) made that run, that was it."

The final touchdown by the Cardinals came after a fake punt by Buffalo failed. The Big Red then drove 56 yards in 10 plays (mostly on the ground). Anderson's 8-yard run with 2:31 remaining in the game was the icing on the cake.

"I thought we could run on Buffalo," said Cardinal head coach Jim Hanifan. "We did, mainly because of good execution. The blocking was very good today."

Division champions at Busch Stadium. The victory brought the Cardinals' record to 4-7 on the season, while Buffalo dropped to 6-5.

Kahoks bring state title downstate again

By PETE HAYES

PALATINE — This was supposed to be the year that the Chicago prep soccer teams broke on top. After all, five-time defending state champion Granite City South had been knocked out of the running for the title in sectionals action. The northern Illinois teams were loaded for bear, to speak.

But somebody forgot about the team that had ousted Granite South from the playoffs. That team, Collinsville, rode roughshod through the field here and won the title. The Kahoks had an excellent season with a 21-21 victory over Glenbrook North in the state championship game at Palatine Fremd.

"Soccer's a tradition in the south," said a jubilant Collinsville head coach Jim Stratton after his title game victory. "But all of it's a 'purple tradition.' Stratton's Kahoks rallied from a 1-0 deficit against Glenbrook to win the sville player in the face (he shot the ball wide).

Glenbrook got the first scoring opportunity when Collinsville was called for a hand-ball in the penalty area. Glenbrook was awarded a penalty kick. But David Corfield's shot to Kahok goalie Ben Birch's left had barely enough oomph to reach the goal line. Birch, who could have sent out a pizza and had seconds before the ball reached him, had only to dive to his left to stop the shot.

"I have no qualms about the kick," said Glenbrook coach Mike Radakovich. "If we had it to do all over again, I'd have the same guy take the kick."

The missed penalty kick appeared to fire up Collinsville. But it was the Spartans who got on the scoreboard first. Dave Sawyer deflected a corner kick by teammate Greg Sommers past Birch at 33:45 of the second quarter. It was the only goal the Kahoks gave up in post-season play.

But Modglin tied the score for Collinsville at the 18:30 mark of the period when he converted on a penalty kick. (The penalty kick felt great, said Modglin.) We needed the goal just before the half.

Indeed, the momentum stayed with the Kahoks most of the second half. "I thought we just went flat out there in the third quarter," said Radakovich. "We started to lay back instead of being aggressive."

"I thought if we had continued to play our game, we still had a chance," he said. "But our kids started to panic in the fourth quarter. They stopped playing our wide-open style of game."

The Kahoks may have had something to do with that. The Collinsville coaches never settled the Spartans and except for an occasional break on one of the wings, couldn't muster much of an attack in the fourth quarter. A goal by Granite South in its 1-1 regular season tie with the Kahoks was the last.

1. A blocked penalty kick;
2. A made penalty kick;

3. A series of shots by Collinsville that ricocheted off one goal post and the other;

HARDWARE COMES HOME . . . AGAIN. Members of the Collinsville High soccer team display their prize — the state championship trophy — Saturday night after defeating Glenbrook North 2-1 in the State title game. Palatine Fremd High School, Collinsville thus replaces Granite City South as state champion. The South Warriors had won the state title the last five years in a row, but were ousted from the playoffs by Collinsville. It marks the sixth straight (and seventh out of 10) year that a Southern Illinois team has won the state title. Granite City Community High won the 1972 title.

State title game was played early

PALATINE — I had an interesting chat with John Leptich and the rest of the Chicago-based media that the state championship game was indeed played earlier than Saturday night. A week ago last Tuesday, he told reporters he felt the state championship game, would be good stuff. # First two no sweat for Kahoks PALATINE — Collinville's soccer Kahoks had little trouble here Friday afternoon and Saturday morning in gaining their way into Saturday night's state championship game at the State Soccer Tournament at Palatine Fremd.

The Kahoks, despite a case of the first-round jitters, breezed by Hinckley-Big Rock, it was obvious, even though Collinville was far from impressive, then beat Royals, were cut-manned in the contest. "When we got up here, the kids were jittery," said Collinville coach Jim Stranz. "They were sort of in awe of the whole thing. I really didn't expect that, then I forgot that I've been coming up here watching the tournament for six years. It's the first time the kids have been here."

But after an unimpressive first half, Collinville's Jim Hook took charge against the Royals. He assisted on Mark Kerkenmeier's first goal (in the first half) and scored the last two himself in the victory. "Hook has a habit of coming up with the big plays," said Stranz. "He a real player in the clutch."

Kerkenmeier's goal came at 43:18. Hook headed in the ball. It hit the crossbar and rebounded. "We needed a break to get unfracked," said Stranz. "That goal finally got us motivated."

The second goal came at 47:15. Hook headed in the ball. It hit the crossbar and rebounded. "We needed a break to get unfracked," said Stranz. "That goal finally got us motivated."

The third goal came at 51:15. Hook headed in the ball. It hit the crossbar and rebounded. "We needed a break to get unfracked," said Stranz. "That goal finally got us motivated."

Against Prospect, it was another gas e of not knowing how much. After another slow start, the Kahoks outplayed the Knights to a man and rolled to the easy victory.

"We've got two silvers but we haven't got a gold yet," Goldschmidt said referring to his college career. That's when Hook scored off assist by Bryan Reising and Randy Hensler. Two minutes later, David Holloman scored to make it 2-0. It looked like a rout was in the making.

Goldschmidt isn't going to worry about his future with the Prospects until his present soccer career is completed with Indiana. Under NCAA regulations, he can't negotiate a contract with Phoenix until the soccer season is over. As of now, he doesn't even know if he would accept Phoenix's offer.

"I'm pretty set on finishing school. If I go, it would be after this semester," Goldschmidt said.

GRANITE CITY — The next few weeks are going to be especially important to Mark Goldschmidt.

Goldschmidt, who was a vital member on Granite City South's 1976 and 1977 state championship teams, was the sixth player chosen in the recent Major Indoor Soccer League (MISL) draft. He was picked in the first round by Phoenix.

More important to Goldschmidt, however, is that his college soccer team, Indiana University, is ranked first in the nation and top contender for the NCAA championship.

"We've got two silvers but we haven't got a gold yet," Goldschmidt said referring to his college career. "It would be nice to add this championship to my two high school state titles."

Goldschmidt isn't going to worry about his future with the Prospects until his present soccer career is completed with Indiana. Under NCAA regulations, he can't negotiate a contract with Phoenix until the soccer season is over. As of now, he doesn't even know if he would accept Phoenix's offer.

"I'm pretty set on finishing school. If I go, it would be after this semester," Goldschmidt said.

Would then be one semester short from graduation and his chemistry major. The only way he would accept a scholarship from Phoenix is if it contained a clause paying for the completion of his education.

"I don't want to be in the situation if my professor or supervisor didn't work, I what now," Goldschmidt said.

Still, he realizes playing professional soccer is a once in a lifetime chance that few people have the privilege of enjoying. "That realization is making his decision even tougher.

Jerry Yeagley,

Indiana's head coach, feels Goldschmidt's quick

GOLDSCHMIDT

"When I came here, I don't think I knew a thing about defense," Goldschmidt admitted. "I had to learn how to play defense. If anything, that's one of my strongest points."

A very durable player Goldschmidt was hampered at the beginning of the season with the first injury of his college career. He tore his ligament in his knee and it took him about a month to recover from the injury and readjust to Indiana's playing system.

"The team is improving every day and part of that improvement is his getting back to full form," Yeagley said. "He's the kind of player you can count on. He's consistent. He's durable. He always plays the best against the toughest teams."

"Teams that aren't that good, I just can't key," Goldschmidt said. "That's probably the biggest plus for me playing good against tough competition. A lot of players can't play against better teams."

Goldschmidt found that one of his former teammates at South, David Fernandez, also has that ability. Fernandez scored SLU's goal in its 1-0 victory over Indiana earlier this season.

"If anybody scored against us, I'm glad he did," Goldschmidt said. "I think it's great he's made the adjustment to college."

Goldschmidt said he would not change a thing about his college career if he had to do it over. He feels Indiana has been a first class operation in both athletics and academics. "I think that will be well prepared as a professional soccer player or as a chemist in a corporation like Monsanto or Anheuser-Busch."

Whatever career Goldschmidt pursues, he's hoping he can precede it with a 1981 NCAA soccer championship. It would be a perfect ending to his collegiate soccer career.

Cougars ready for NCAA meet

EDWARDSVILLE — (Special) — It may have taken a long time but the 1981 cross country Cougars of Southern Illinois University Edwardsville appear to have peaked just in time for Saturday's NCAA Division II Regional Championships in Big Rapids, Mich. The Cougars, who have shown improved times and better team dynamics in each of the past three weeks, won their first team title of the year last Saturday when they captured both the Maryville College and the Southern Area Collegiate Athletic Association titles in the meet.

The Cougars, who topped 23 points in the Maryville Invitational, considered College of the Ozarks (29), Southwest Memphis College (27), Washington University (123), the University of Missouri-St. Louis (115) and Principia College (16) for the team crown. The Cougars also posted a 15 in the SLACAA meet on their way to dethrone the defending champions from Washington University.

Call for end for toxic endrin

the Herald Standard — GRANITE CITY — The National Wildlife Federation has called on the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to ban any use or export of the pesticide endrin. The call from the nation's largest conservation group came two weeks after the Montana wildlife agency announced that it had found high levels of the pesticide dieldrin in duck tissue.

Last spring, endrin was legally sprayed on at least 120,000 acres of wheat in Montana to combat an outbreak of Army cutworms. Thousands of acres were sprayed in South Dakota and Wyoming.

Montana officials began testing migratory waterfowl after the Montana Wildlife Federation, an NWF affiliate, reported fish and other wildlife kills in that state.

Against the advice of the state health department, the Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks Commission voted in September to allow a duck harvest in the state. The commission cautions hunters to strip birds of skin and body fat, to eat no more than one bird a week, and no more than six per year. The commission also recommended that pregnant women avoid eating any waterfowl.

The NWF statement follows:

"The recent discovery of endrin contamination of waterfowl in Montana is a wake-up call to wildlife managers. It is also a human economic and agricultural concern. And, it affects states other than Montana. Because the contaminated waterfowl migrate to the central and Pacific flyways must be on the alert. Although only ducks and geese have been goal allowed by Collinville before the title match.

"The people up here issued a challenge and we took them up on it,"

Stranz

"Everybody wanted this championship," he said. "It's the school and for Southern Illinois soccer."

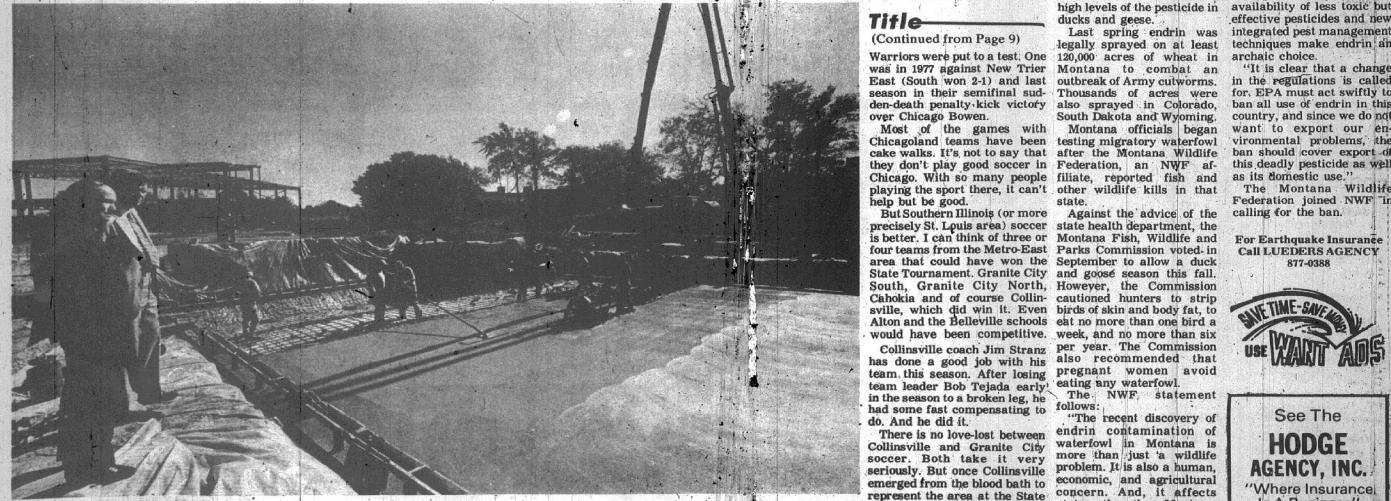

Collinville appeared to take a 3-1 lead in the fourth quarter, but the Kahoks were ruled offside in the play.

The victory gave Collinville a final record of 24-2 while Glenbrook North finished as 19-2-1. The Kahoks came back-to-back in the middle of the season to Alton and to City North, the two with Granite City South and C.B.C. of St. Louis.

"We haven't impressed people all season," said Stranz. "But we play good defense and we've been getting better offensively."

Radakovitch and the rest of the Chigagoland coaches would agree.

Construction of the building, which will include a gymnasium and facilities for a wide variety of instructional, recreational and competitive activities, began May 18 and is on schedule. ## Expand energy audit program

Illinois Power Company residential customers are being notified by mail of an expanded residential energy audit program now available. W. Dean Cunningham, manager of energy programs, said the expanded program incorporates provisions of the National Energy Watch program, previously offered by Illinois Power Company, and the state energy conservation plan. "In our continuing effort to promote the wise use of energy resources, Illinois Power Company is ambiuncing the addition of several new services to the National Energy Watch (NEW) residential energy audit program," Cunningham said.

When an audit is requested, a trained energy use advisor will inspect the customer's home from attic to basement, examine the heating and cooling systems and the hot water heater. The advisor will prepare a computer-analyzed conservation plan specific to the home and make recommendations for reducing energy use. Recommendations will be made for use of renewable sources of energy, such as wind and solar energy, when this is appropriate.

If the home needs energy conservation improvements, Illinois Power Company will provide a list of participating contractors and material suppliers, explain in plain English for obtaining home improvement loans, and provide information on tax credits and other energy conservation programs available to Illinois residents.

Cunningham said the announcement of the program is being mailed to Illinois Power Company's residential customers. The audit will be offered over the next 24 months at a cost of $15. During the next 24 months, each customer will receive a notice of when the program is available, in his community and instructions for requesting the audit.

Illinois Power Company customers in the Bloomington, Ottawa and East Saint Louis areas, where Illinois Power and another major utility provide one type of utility service, and customers in other major utilities in the state are being offered the audit program through the Illinois Energy Audit Association. The Illinois Energy Audit Association is an organization comprised of all the utilities in the state of which Illinois Power Company is a member.

CHRONIC BACK PAIN

In many of the cases that come to our attention, the patients are not sure that what they have is really a "back problem"; their backs do not hurt constantly, but only "catch" in some positions. Because of this, some feel that if they give it time, the conditions will heal itself.

Most back pain is caused by mechanical defects in the spine . . . misalignment of spinal vertebrae. At first, there may be only an occasional "catch" with a change in posture but small defects develop into larger, more serious ones with continuous pain.

Only rarely will a spinal misalignment correct itself. Chiropractic can provide immediate relief. Phone us. There is no charge for consultation.

Awards to graduate students

The Graduate School at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is seeking applicants for a number of graduate awards available for students of high academic quality. The awards include a maximum of $3,600 ($400 per month) for the nine-month academic year, as well as remission of tuition and some fees.

Awards are available on a competitive basis in two categories:

Degree-seeking graduate students with an overall 4.3 (A equals 5.0) or better undergraduate average. The award is given to recognize and encourage those students who have shown outstanding potential as revealed through past academic records, letters of recommendation, and other evidence of outstanding achievement.

Degree-seeking graduate students who demonstrate financial need and academic promise. For this second type of award, special consideration is given to applicants with minority status and to residents of the Metro-East area. Foreign students and students in off-campus programs and unclassified students are not eligible for either award.

A recipient must be fully admitted as a classified graduate student of a specific degree program, receive a minimum of 12 hours of graduate credit each quarter, and maintain the required minimum grade point average. Award amounts cannot exceed university employee during the award period. The awards are not renewable.

Awards are for the following academic year. Application forms are available from the Graduate School Office (Benedum Hall) and completed applications are to be returned to the Graduate School no later than Feb. 15, 1982. All applicants will be notified early in April, 1982.

Revenue bond issue for GC muffler shop

The Granite City Council has approved the first step in issuing a $325,000 industrial revenue bond for a proposed muffler shop to be located in the block of Nameoki Road.

Attorney Leo Konzen presented a memorandum of agreement to the council for Thomas Koziatek. The proposed shop would be used for the construction of the building and purchase of equipment for the business.

Konzen said he expects the muffler shop to employ about 12 to 15 workers. He said he will anticipate a zoning problem since the area is currently zoned as a commercial district.

Raises for school cooks

A one-year agreement with school cooks was approved by the board Tuesday night.

"The food service personnel were given the same insurance benefits as the teachers and salaries increased amounts that were negotiated with the teachers, secretaries and custodians," Hillmer said.

"The agreement is a 10 percent pay increase, with no incremental move-up last year. This is a one-year agreement with a reopener clause or cancellation clause."

Retroactive to July 1, the 1981-82 pact calls for hourly pay ranging from $18 for first-year employees to $5.92 for those in the 11th year or more.

Lead women in elementary cafeterias will be paid 20 cents an hour in addition to the basic pay.

Prevention of vehicle theft will be a high priority in the administration of Jim Edgar, secretary of state, he told the Midway Task Force on Auto Theft, Preventative.

Edgar said state law enforcement officers, motor vehicle law administrators, insurance executives and other auto theft prevention experts at the task force meeting in the Springfield Hilton hotel earlier this month.

"Vehicle theft is a growing area of crime," he said. "To put it down, we must work not only with local police but with each other. There is an interstate problem, we must work with other states as we now work with Indiana in a bi-state unit that has made many arrests and recovered a half million dollars' worth of stolen cars and parts."

The Illinois task force, organized in September, 1980, as a result of Task Force effort, arrested 36 major organized-crime rings in auto theft rings during its first year of operation.

"The task force consists of 11 men

Computerized research soon available at public library

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
for the Press-Record

Imagine a local genealogist searching for his roots, but a book essential to his research eludes him. Or, imagine a student researching a thesis about a particular battle in the Civil War not written about in any history book in any library within the researcher's library system.

Then, contemplate the hours a reference librarian could spend laboriously leafing through source books looking for the answers.

Last week, the Granite City Public Library Board approved an experimental computerized cataloging system, the sponsorship of the Lewis and Clark Library System, which will make this city a key point for researchers in 31 Illinois public libraries and in as many as 45 special libraries cities which are tied into the system.

Dialog, a computer information service, will connect the Granite City Public Library with a worldwide data bank.

After four days of the Lewis and Clark Library System, said she had originally planned the system to be tested at Lewis and Clark as part of its normal search services provided for its member libraries, but budget cuts sidetracked that idea.

"Granite had expressed an interest in the system," Ms. Fosse said, explaining why the library here was selected for the test. In return, the Granite City Public Library will perform the computerized reference services needed by Lewis and Clark.

Not related to computerized cataloging, the online system is a computerized network idea. Libraries outside large metropolitan centers or state libraries. "We'll be measuring patron use," Ms. Fosse said, to determine if there is a demand for such a service.

After examining their own information sources on a particular subject and checking with the Lewis and Clark System to see what data its network of 76 libraries has available, librarians will be able to compile the names and locations of books on the selected subject.

"Patrons (and libraries) will be paying on a time-sharing basis," Ms. Fosse said. "An average of $10 for a day's use."

She said the computer is "not constantly on line" meaning Granite City will only be "paying for time actually used."

Patrons will not be using the computer themselves, since some training will be required. "We're most anxious to start," Ms. Fosse said. Staff members will be able to obtain an immediate computerized answer to any question taken them three to eight hours to find alone.

"It's certainly cost effective for us," Ms. Fosse said.

Robert Stach, director for the Granite City Public Library, said he expects the computer terminal to be installed at the library in about a month, but must wait until staff members receive

Police calls by deaf and speech impaired

SPECIAL telephone equipment, installed at the Illinois State Police headquarters at Marionville by the Illinois Department of Public Health, enables people who have hearing or speech impairments to call for help.

Colonel LaMarr A. Nanganelas, commander, District Eleven, said the equipment, a teletypewriter (TTY), will make it possible for those who cannot use an ordinary telephone to call for help when they need police, fire-fighting, medical, or ambulance assistance.

In order to have access to the TTY receiving unit, a handicapped person must install a home unit for sending and receiving messages.

"We anticipate that, with installation of the TTY equipment, nearly all handicapped persons will install home units during the next two or three years," he commented.

William L. Kempiners, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said the unit installed at the district headquarters is one of 297 TTYS being distributed by the state health department to local public safety answering points throughout the future.

TTYS have been installed in 35 of the state's 102 county sheriff's offices, and the remaining 262 units will be installed in other public safety answering points which have a representative population of 10,000 or more.

Kempiners said the units have been purchased through two state grants to local governments, totaling $170,000.

DAMAGE IS ALLEGED Jeffrey S. Wallace, 18, of 2000 W. 10th Street, accused of Kirkpatrick Homes at 6:35 p.m. Thursday to be booked on an earlier warrant alleging criminal damage to property.

We anticipate that, with installation of the TTY equipment, nearly all handicapped persons will install home units during the next two or three years," he commented.

SIUE planning for 25th anniversary

The 25th anniversary of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be observed during the 1981-82 academic year. Earl Lazerson has launched planning for a year-long celebration beginning in September, 1982.

Resident centers were established by the University at Alton and East St. Louis in 1957 and the first graduates received their diplomas in June, 1958.

The Office of Development and Public Affairs will coordinate the anniversary events, and David C. Hunterley, director of the Office of Cultural Arts and University Museums, has been named to provide the overall direction and leadership for the task force.

Leaders for the seminar include Theodore J. Trauner, Jr. and William R. Loew, senior consultants for Hill International, Inc. Trauner has extensive experience in construction management and contract administration, and Hill deals with analysis, arbitration and litigation of construction claims.

The seminar will meet from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Stan Musial and Biggle's Airport Hilton Inn, 1030 Natural Bridge Rd., St. Louis.

The year-deductible fee, including luncheons and materials, is $465, payable to SIUE.

A discount of 10 percent is available for organizations sending three or more persons to the seminar. Late registration fees will be charged for persons attending the program may obtain large discounts.

For additional information or registration forms, interested persons may call the Center for Management Studies at 1-692-2668.

The University Center program department.

J. Dale Doelger, dean of students; Krista Oxford, assistant director of the Office of Continuing Education and chairperson of the University Staff Senate; Donald Shandler, Director of the Office of Cultural Arts and Education; Warren Stockey, director of Alumni Services; Willie Pyke, chairperson of the department of business education and administration; Steve Sperotto, director of University News Services.

RESIDENT CENTERS

Tools and truck batteries were taken by a burglar who broke a door glass and ransacked the Seebold Concrete Co. building at the 2nd Street railroad crossing last week.

Leaders for the task force, President Lazerson said: "During the past quarter-century, the university, its faculty, staff and students have accomplished much, and it is fitting and appropriate for us this occasion to celebrate and recount these achievements and provide a forum for the discussion of future goals."

Lazerson said the major responsibility of task force members will be to direct available resources in ways which will enhance the observance of the anniversary.

Other members of the task force include: Barbara Teter, vice-president and provost; Hollis Whit, dean of the School of Fine Arts and Communications; David G. Dill, director of the School of Business; Reese Nagel, director of University Graphics and Publications; Steve Sperotto, director of

No way to maintain adequate level of health care in Southern half of Illinois without the local dental school

There is some hope that a positive report will be given Nov. 30 on the School of Dental Medicine (SDM) of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. A recommendation to continue or discontinue the SDM made by Chicago by the Dental Education Committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

We hope the current optimism is justified. The threat to the school's future is real, even though logic overwhelmingly calls for continuation of the SDM, including funds for renovation and planning funds for the long-term capital project.

University officers said Higher Education Board research showing more production of dentists in Illinois than required by the current dental ratio recognize a continuing need for dentists in the "overdeveloped" areas of downstate Illinois. IBHE officials also acknowledged there are areas of Chicago with an inadequate supply of dentists.

Dr. Seymour Yale, dean of the U. I. dental school, testified that improvements at the Circle City have been restricted because of lack of funds, not due to an oversupply of dentists. He told reporters he was unaware of any effort by the U. I. to pressure the IBHE to recommend closing the local school, supposedly to provide a more favorable climate for the U. I. in competing for state appropriations.

Whatever action is taken may be rapid-fire. Dr. Diego Redondo of Deerfield, committee chairman, will deliver the panel's Nov. 30, recommendation the following day, Dec. 1, to the full IBHE board, also meeting in Chicago.

Members agreed Nov. 3 that they should resolve the question of the school's future, before giving funds to the SDM to continue its existence in the IBHE's September request to the committee. This makes sense, since the somewhat unprecedented public hearings have left the dental school and citizens with deep concern and uncertainty.

The committee was directed "to review statewide capacity for dental education, alternatives to the regionalization of dental education, the retention of dental schools, and the economic and educational justification for the dental school of SIUE."

Since SIUE was singled out, along with the idea of "alternatives to regionalization," the whole situation appears to be a stacked deck against the local school, with some push toward a vaguer alternative of meeting the dental needs of the state. SIUE has tried to respond forthrightly to the inquiry, and the evidence assembled argues eloquently for a favorable vote on the SDM by the committee.

The state's four dental schools, two public and two private, plus the Illinois Dental Society, Illinois Department of Public Health and other dental agencies Nov. 3 to discuss information received at hearings held Oct. 20 in Alton and East St. Louis. The committee also received additional data gathered by the IBHE staff.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Chicago, incidentally, rebuked a letter by one of its directors who opposed continued state support for the SDM. Dr. Earl Lazerson told the committee he believes "we have a job to do in training dentists for service in downstate Illinois for a long time to come." He appropriately noted that the school's mission, as mandated by the IBHE a decade ago, is to train dentists for central and southern Illinois.

Lazerson emphasized that the Madison-St. Clair counties area is the second most populous region in Illinois and has had special needs which led to establishment of SIUE and the SDM. He said the region had been deprived for many years, and that the university and dental school are part of a "bootstrap operation to allow this area to assume its rightful place in the state."

As was recommended by the IBHE, the SDM is enrolled in a total of 24 students in its first Sound Instruction classes from the start, enabling it to attain full accreditation in 1975.

In 1976, the IBHE master plan recommended that the SDM here expand to 64 dentists per class. This recommendation was restated in a report approved by the IBHE in 1980.

Local graduates had the highest "pass rate" of all Illinois dental school graduates on state board examinations.

Nearly nine prospective dental students apply for each available space at the SDM.

The retention rate is excellent, with only eight out of 24 students not graduating since 1972.

Cost of operating the SDM is about average for small dental schools. In a recent analysis it ranked seventh of 14 institutions compared, with a yearly cost for taxpayers of $20,225 per student; the median cost was $19,668. Yet, the cost to each student has been kept at least $1,700 a year less than at the other dental schools in Illinois.

The "bottom line" is that both dental health and overall health care in a major portion of Illinois are at stake, and that no "unforgivable sin" has been committed in pursuing the admirable goal of a high caliber of dental education being furnished at reasonable cost and at the right place and time.

With the local dental school, health can be maintained and enhanced; without it, the caliber of health care—and thus the quality of life itself—cannot be sustained in the southern half of Illinois.

Surely such a worthy objective—and the effective, skilled pursuit of it—will be recognized by the Dental Education Committee and the Board of Higher Education in their deliberations. Regional rivalry, if it exists, must not be allowed to prevail merely because the South is outnumbered by the North in population and in lobbying clout.

Lazerson told the committee that, if $960,000 is provided for current renovation projects, the SDM can continue to operate

BAC now 6th largest

Belleville Area College has the sixth largest enrollment this fall of the 56 Illinois community colleges. It is the largest number of students outside the northern portion of the state.

More than 12,500 students are enrolled at BAC, a 6.4 percent increase over last year's enrollment of 11,844.

The number of hours of classes for which students enrolled increased even more. It jumped 7.7 percent from a full-time equivalence enrollment of 5,349 in the fall of 1980 to 5,763 this fall.

Of the six units in the community colleges in the state, BAC had the lowest instructional unit cost. Unit cost is the number of dollars spent per student semester credit hour.

BAC's unit cost was $64.42 compared to an average of $73.80 for the other five schools. That was a decrease of more than three percent or $2.10 from the 1980 unit cost.

BAC taught more hours of courses at a lower cost per hour in fiscal 1981 than in the preceding year, the statistics showed.

The fact that full-time enrollment increased more than the number of students indicates students on the average are carrying heavier classloads, a spokesman noted.

Enrollment at BAC has increased steadily since the fall of 1979 when there were 9,538 students registered.

Enrollment figures are based on the number of students registered on the 10th day of classes each semester.

BAC's increase in enrollment is a reflection of a statewide trend that saw a 10.2 percent increase this fall. The statewide average for full-time equivalence enrollment was a gain of 8.5 percent.

A record number of students enrolled at Belleville Area College during the first day of registration for spring of 1982 classes last week.

Registrar John Silvester said 844 students enrolled in one day, more than double the number signing up on the first day of registration for fall classes a year ago.

He conceded that many "valid" points were brought out, including differences in the cost of living between Alton and Chicago, the convenience of access to medical facilities. Students have to live on the Alton campus, the high quality of education being offered at the local SDM, the dental services provided by it to Metro-East communities, and the severe economic impact on this area if the SDM were ordered closed.

He conceded that we feel we must keep in mind:

—Of the 200 SIUE-SDM graduates in private practice, 82 percent are practicing in Illinois and about two-thirds are within 10 miles of Alton.

—Of the graduates practicing in this state, at least 130 are in communities of less than 30,000 and many are serving areas of less than 10,000.

—Prior to creation of the SDM, 65 percent of the dentists in southern Illinois were graduates of the St. Louis U. Dental School, which closed after graduating its last class in 1970.

—As was recommended by the IBHE, the SDM is enrolled in a total of 24 students in its first Sound Instruction classes from the start, enabling it to attain full accreditation in 1975.

In 1976, the IBHE master plan recommended that the SDM here expand to 64 dentists per class. This recommendation was restated in a report approved by the IBHE in 1980.

Reject grant for sewer monitors

By GEORGEANNE McGEE
for the Press-Record

The Madison County Special Sewer Committee has turned down an application for $100,000 in financial assistance from the Illinois Environmental Protection (IEPA) grant to install a central lift station monitoring system, because the district would be unable to raise it approximately $30,000 of the cost-sharing grant.

The service must now depend on observers to hear or see sirens and light warning systems, which are now plagued by repair problems.

Committee Chairman Morris Miles said the committee had expected all along to purchase the new system, but after the service area finishes construction on its new buildings, funds will be exhausted.

Miles said the IEPA recommended the installation of the monitoring system. "Charles Junesau of Junesau Associates, engineers of the sewer project, told the committee at its Wednesday meeting

Under the present system, "anything could go wrong and it could cost us a fortune," Miles said. "The service area has no way to raise its 25 percent share to its 30 percent legal action limit," he said.

After Member Roderick Bauer made a motion to "forget about the monitoring system at this time," Sewer Superintendent H. Gene Fuchs asked the committee to consider the cost of eliminating the system.

A payment of even minimum benefit still requires stipulated amounts of work to earn Social Security. Based on your age, you would require about 23 quarters of coverage (almost six years of work).

Unless this requirement is met, no benefits, not even the minimum amount, can be paid.

Junesau told committee members that action should be taken now, or risk losing the grant money. If the committee wanted to install a monitoring system in the future, "it would be totally out of Madison County's pocket," he predicted.

The Madison County Special Sewer Committee suggested a less expensive system in 1980, but committee members said they would still be no money available even for a scaled-down system.

"The action taken here is the action we have to take," Miles said. "We are getting right all the time, getting right all the time."

Assistant States Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith said that because of a computer delay, there will be at least a two-week "grace period" before the legal action begins.

Smith said these recent cuts in the special service areas who have not yet tapped on to the system. "We are getting right all the time," he said.

At the committee meeting, Miles said 3,100 homes out of a total of 3,700 possible users, have already connected to the system.

Smith said he would, however, soon be filing suits against those 458 users, who own the county back sewer lines.

Smith also responded to a recent sewer rate complaint from the Gurnee Pointe Club and surrounding municipalities made by Terrance McMillian, wastewater plant superintendent, had said the study suggested a rate increase of 10 percent.

Smith said he wanted to reassure local area residents that their current rates have been assured by contract until February, 1983.

Your Social Security

SOCIAL SECURITY
SPECIAL EDITION

Does your person-to-person difference in the amount of person receives? What if they should apply at 62/63 or 64.

There is a difference. A person applying for retirement benefits files at age 65 receives full payment.

At age 62 would receive 80 percent of the age 65 figure. At 63, 86 percent would be paid, while at age 64, it would be about 95 percent of the age 65 rate.

There are 36 different rates payable at age 65. The amount depends on the number of months an individual is under age 65 when claiming.

I'm still wondering whether or not I should sign up for Medical Insurance. I am 62 and my wife is 60. We have no medical insurance.

Based on our ages, we would qualify for Social Security. Based on our ages, we would qualify for Social Security.

Unless this requirement is met, no benefits, not even the minimum amount, can be paid.

Administrative salaries raised

The Granite City Board of Education last week decided to grant all school administrators salary raises for a flat ten percent for the 1981-82 school year.

Maximum sick leave was increased from $300 per year for 12 months-a-year for administrators, and it was decided to provide $5,000 of paid-up life insurance coverage for administrators, through establishing a self-sustaining fund.

Life insurance beyond that will be based on annual salaries, instead of $20,000. Monthly cost to the school system for administrators' insurance will rise $161, from $200 to $425.

The title of Ronald Landrum was changed from maintenance supervisor to director of buildings and grounds.

The title of Warren Collins was changed from curriculum coordinator to administrative assistant for instructional services.

It was decided that Board Member Thomas Miosky will continue to serve on the negotiations committee for non-certified employees, with David Parney as alternate.

No committee was named for certified staff negotiations, since a two-year agreement was reached with the teachers earlier.

Board President George Moore will chair the policy committee, which will include Miosky and Robert Maxine.

Donald Stucke will be the board's delegate to the Quad-City special education board and also to the Illinois Large District Council. Parney will be alternate delegate to the special education board, and Miosky will be the Large District Council alternate.

Miosky will be the new delegate to the Title I federal program's advisory council.

with Maxwell as alternate. Dewey Melton will serve on the Citizens Advisory Council, with Worthen as alternate, and Melton also will represent Granite City on the Southwest Division of the Illinois Association of School Boards. Moore also attends various IASB activities as an officer of the group.

Elbert J. Hileman, a Mitchell School custodian, because of absence due to personal illness, last week was granted an extension of the leave from Dec. 15 to March 1982.

Mary R. Brown, a Webster School cafeteria employee, will retire Dec. 31. She has worked in the school district for 19 years.

Ann G. Spiller, a school social worker, will resign effective Nov. 13 in order to accept a position at Fontenelle College.

N. Bruce Martin was named last week to conduct intramural athletics at Nameoki School during the spring semester.

The School Board decided to contract the services of its new attorney.

William Schooley handles regular legal services for the school system, including attending board meetings, and told the board that no new legal charges had been submitted. Work by him or by a member of his law firm, William Beatty Jr., is provided to the district as needed at $50 an hour.

Harold Bakke will continue to be the legal advisor for school employees in negotiations, and Irvin Slavek Jr. will continue to handle worker compensation cases.

Board meetings will remain on the corner starting at 7:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. However, the next two meetings will be on Nov. 24 and Dec. 15.

Plans for 80-acre development are reviewed by sewer committee

By GEORGEANN McGEE, for the Press-Record

Specialty Supply Co., Inc., commercial and residential developers, told members of the Madison County Sanitary Sewers Special Service Area One last week that his planned 85-acre commercial and industrial development "as today looks like go."

Lucas appeared before the committee to clarify a resolution of intent approved earlier for the sewer district to provide sanitary sewer facilities for the planned SEMCO development located on a proposed extension of St. Clair Avenue between Maryville Road and Mockingbird Lane.

"The date set for opening stores is 1983," Lucas said. "Optimism stems from a meeting held at city hall in Granite City yesterday which brought 'interested parties' together. The chairman of the meeting was David Noland, administrative assistant to Mayor Paul Schuler, and Granite City Alderman Mac Warfield of the Sixth Ward.

"This is the first Planned Unit Development (PUD) project under the new zoning ordinance," Lucas said, explaining that the city expressed its continued interest yesterday in the preliminary planning of the project. Lucas previously requested an "advisory commitment" from the Granite City Plan Commission that they will endorse Lucas' plans for annexation and PUD zoning of the development.

PUD, a feature in the city's new zoning ordinance, will allow annexation of a proposed mixture of commercial and industrial zoning as zone zoning unit, waiving set-back and lot line requirements and other specific zoning provisions.

Lucas said stores need to be "ancillary" to the proposed shopping center were "very receptive" at yesterday's meeting, although no firms commitments had been made. "I feel we got some good responses," Lucas said.

The development plans provide for about 50 commercial and 30 residential acres, to hold commercial buildings, office condominiums and homes.

Final approval of development's inclusion in the Special Sewer District must be made by the Madison County Board, which previously delayed

"It is an item I do have to get worked out in advance and I don't want a monkey wrench thrown in," Lucas told the sewer committee.

In his informational letter to the committee, Lucas wrote that all aspects of the agreement with the sewer district, with the exception of the requirement that he hire the sewer district's engineer to design the projects still would be controlled by his firm. "The reason for our not agreeing to use the sewer district's engineering firm is related to pending litigation between my firm and said engineers (Juneau & Associates) concerning a similar resolution of the Mitchell Public Water District, Juneau ruled "null and void" the Mitchell Public Water District's ordinance which demanded that anyone requesting annexation of water service into a subdivision must hire the engineer of the district (also Juneau & Associates).

(The issue had been raised by Lucas after the water company refused to allow him in at water lines in the Burton Subdivision.)

Lucas said he did not want to use the Juneau firm, but preferred Corleve M. B. & Associates Inc. of Edwardsville. Juneau also stated that Juneau firm also has stated in the past that he would prefer not to work on any of Lucas' projects.

Lucas said he wanted to put to rest rumors that he did not intend to comply with the terms of the Juneau & Associates service agreement.

While he questioned some of the procedural requirements, he said he could abide by the rules of the agreement.

Lucas said he delayed bringing the SEMCO-sewer district annexation ordinance before the last county board meeting because of questions by Marshall "Zekie" Smith, a member of the state legislature.

He was told there were unanswered questions. I assume those questions have been answered," Miles said.

Sewer Superintendent H. Gene Fultz told Lucas that Juneau firm also has stated from yesterday's committee meeting, would be attending the Nov. 25 county board meeting and had requested that Lucas be there.

Bigger homestead exemption would affect homeowners, taxing bodies

The Illinois Senate next year will consider increasing from $3,000 to $4,500 the general homestead residential property owners to subtract that amount from the equalized assessed valuation of their homes, if there has been that much of an inflation-related rise in their assessments.

Sen. Paul Schuler said Granite City has already enacted its yearly levy, directing Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles to assess property at maximum authorized tax rates. Those cities would "be forced to accept reduced property tax dollars," a spokesman said.

He added that the bill would provide for tax credits to local governments to offset tax increases beyond $90 million a year.

He said the bill could provide tax relief "when people really need tax relief" but would in effect reduce the tax base that supports local-level governmental bodies.

Legislators opposed implementation of the plan this fall because it would have come at a time when many cities had already submitted their annual property tax levies.

Mayor Paul Schuler said Granite City has already enacted its yearly levy, directing Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles to assess property at maximum authorized tax rates. Those cities would "be forced to accept reduced property tax dollars," a spokesman said.

He added that the bill would provide for tax credits to local governments to offset tax increases beyond $90 million a year.

He said House Bill 1047 began in the House as a bill on tax appraisal techniques and certification. He said it later was entirely rewritten.

The homestead exemption first passed the General Assembly in 1977. It stated that any increase in assessed value (AV) on owner-occupied residential real estate would be reduced by up to $1,500 in 1978 and $3,000 in 1979 and subsequent years.

HB 1047, as currently worded, would raise the maximum deduction to $4,500 for 1981 and subsequent years.

The Municipal League gives as an example $40,000, property assessed at 33 percent of its market value for tax purposes in 1977 ($13,200 AV).

Under the proposed legislation, such a home could increase to $53,500 in market value, at $17,833 assessment before the net assessment would be taken. The current figure for that property would be $49,000, a $16,333 assessment.

Pro, con of smoking areas for students

There are advantages and disadvantages of an existing policy of allowing smoking in a single smoking area for students at each of the two Granite City high schools.

This is the finding of a committee of school personnel appointed to review the smoking areas.

The topic was discussed last week by School Board members along with North Principal Gilbert Walsmeyer, South Principals James Dunn and Jim Hayes. Both principals established the study committee.

The committee met several times and developed lists summarizing its conclusions.

Advantages of smoking areas for the two high schools were noted by the committee as including:

1. Keeps smokers off the edge of the campus.

2. Provides a place for smokers to smoke.

3. Helps smokers in one group thus making it easier to observe them.

4. Less problems in restroom areas. Example—impossible to observe every restroom. Smoke-filled restrooms are very irritating to nonsmokers.

5. There actually is very little problem in the smoking areas each school with the aid of students and the role of the campus monitors.

6. The schools do not have to discipline smokers who have parental consent.

7. The areas are used by many different types of students.

8. Non-smokers use the areas in case they are smokers.

9. Having smoking areas makes it easier to control smoking violations.

No changes in the present procedures will be made until there has been further discussion by board members.
